An increased buyer pool is accelerating activity in Brooklyn. A rush of buyers who had left the city during the pandemic are making their way back, as are those looking to upgrade their lifestyle with more space and vibrant culture.

This heated demand upped the average sales price to $1.18 million, the highest ever for any Q1, and ballooned total sales volume by 16.3 percent compared to last year.

While rising mortgage rates typically would bring prices down, that is not the case in Brooklyn, where consistent demand and low inventory levels have kept prices escalated and a sense of urgency amongst buyers.

Most of the sales last quarter were single-family homes and condos, accounting for 78 percent of all transactions, as people gravitated toward lofty and turn-key abodes.

It is no surprise that most transactions took place in south South Brooklyn (Sheepshead Bay, Flatbush, Bay Ridge, Midwood, and Bensonhurst), accounting for 48.3 percent market share—consistent with past quarters. While the average sales price dwindled by 3.9 percent in this submarket, units in South Brooklyn with higher finishes and everyday amenities are still commanding higher prices, including 2218 Ocean Ave, 1901 Ocean Ave, and 1670 East 19th Street.

In summary, Brooklyn continues to be the juggernaut of New York City real estate, and the steady stream of buyers means that it will stay a desired destination regardless of what is happening in the world.

Methodology

Geography covered in this report is Brooklyn.

Contract Signed figures for the current quarter are based on publicly reported transactions at the time the report is prepared. The signed price reflects the latest available asking price.

Recorded Sales figures for the quarter are based on known closings recorded at the time the report is prepared.

Median Price is the middle price of a given dataset.

Average Price is the sum of all prices divided by the total number of properties.

Months of Supply is an estimated time it would take to sell all current active listings based on the trailing 12-month sales rate.

Time on Market is calculated by how many properties entered contract during the quarter in the given period.

Discount is the percentage difference between the initial list and recorded sale price.

Bedroom Count is the number of bedrooms a property has, as reported in the listing, or acquired from tax records, when available.

Current Quarter is reflective of the initial day of the quarter until the 20th day of the quarter's closing month. These numbers will be updated in subsequent reports to reflect the dataset of the entire quarter.
